The subject of the conference was pilot model of the International Healthcare Cooperation Program presented by Cedars Sinai. The participants of the conference described the model's major aspects, tasks, and expected results.

They also discussed plans for training Ukrainian professionals for the All-Ukrainian Center to Protect Mother's and Children's Health, a.k.a. Children's Hospital of the Future: one-three weeks trainings for multidiscipline teams of pediatricians, neonatologists, obstetricians, gynecologists, IC specialists, and managers.

The participants agreed to conduct more conferences to discuss concrete training schedules and the date of the first Ukrainian team's trip to CSMC.

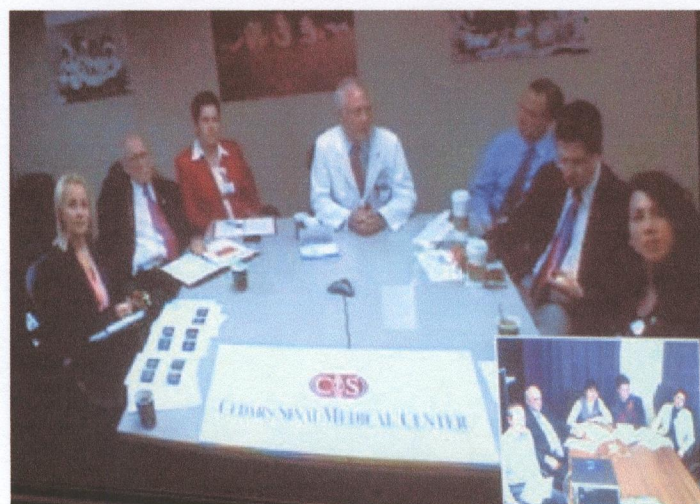

The Cedars Sinai Medical Center is one of the biggest and oldest patient care institutions in the US West. Its staff is over 12,000 people, providing treatment to over 300,000 patients per year.

This was the second teleconference between Ukrainian professionals and the Cedars Sinai Medical Center representatives. The first was held July 18, 2007.
